House approves base wage hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives is sending the Senate legislation to raise the minimum wage paid millions of American workers by 75 cents an hour over the next three years.

About 3.1 million persons work for the current $2.30 hourly minimum wage, which will go to $2.65 in January if the Senate agrees with the House's action Thursday. This would mean a $14 weekly raise for people working a 40-hour week.

The raise to $3.05 by 1980 would be the most sizable since Congress passed the first minimum wage legislation decades ago. A similar bill has already been approved by a Senate committee.

An amendment to guarantee youths only 85 per cent of the minimum wage for their first six months on the job lost 211 to 210, with Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. breaking the tie. The amendment would have lost on a tie anyway, but O'Neill's vote was symbolically important to labor.

The House turned down a proposal sought by the restaurant workers union to amend employers' right to pay workers who get tips only half the minimum wage.

Another amendment the House approved eliminates 3.8 million workers from minimum wage protection by raising the exemption for companies making $250,000 in sales a year to $500,000.

Business groups won a victory in the House's 223-193 defeat of a provision to automatically raise the minimum wage annually after 1980, based on a percentage of the average factory worker's pay.

"Adopting this index means we will be abandoning the fight against inflation," said Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Ill., whose amendment successfully knocked out the provision.

Reps. Paul Simon, D-Ill., and Robert Cornwell, D-Wis., sponsored the sub-minimum amendment, which also drew support from Republicans.

They said similar two-tiered scales have had no ill effects in Europe and should be tried here.

Cornwell said that, while he had "no pretences that this will solve youth unemployment," it is "time to try another approach."

But a special wage category for teenagers would make no more sense than a category for blacks or women whose jobless rates are also high, said Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif.

Rep. Parren Mitchell, D-Md., chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus, said a separate minimum for youths would be "a ghastly mistake" and would play off one age group of hardcore unemployed against another.

'Lazy eye' screening clinic set

A free amblyopia (lazy eye) screening clinic will be held for pre-school children in the Washington C.H. area Saturday, Sept. 24.

The clinic, sponsored by the Washington C.H. Lioness Club, the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Blindness and the Fayette County Health Department, will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. and 1 until 3 p.m. in the Junior Achievement center building at 476 N. Fayette St.

According to the program sponsors, the clinic is designed for all children, ages 3 through 6, in the Washington C.H. area.

Amblyopia, if left untreated until a child reaches age seven, usually results in permanent blindness.

Children believed to be suffering with the affliction at the free screening clinic will be referred to medical eye doctors for the proper treatment. Early diagnosis and proper treatment of the problem usually result in the child being restored to good vision.

In 1976, more than 24,000 youngsters participated in vision screening clinics throughout the state.

It has been estimated by officials of the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Blindness that some 4,000 pre-school children in Ohio are suffering from amblyopia.

More information on the screening clinic can be obtained by contacting Mrs. Victor Pontious (335-7134) or Mrs. Lawrence Lehman (495-5244) before Sept. 24.

Legal recourse looms

About $20,000 still owed from 1971 tax

By RICK WHAITE
Record-Herald Staff Writer

An estimated $10,000 to $20,000 is still owed to the city of Washington C.H. from 1971 income taxes, according to Raldon M. Smith, city income tax administrator.

Smith had reported the estimate to the Record-Herald earlier this year and Tuesday said he had no reason to revise the figure. His department sent an alphabetical computer list of alleged delinquent taxpayers to the city's solicitor which resulted in the filing of criminal charges against 106 local residents and four local business firms Aug. 29.

Those persons were charged with failing to file a 1975 income tax return with the city. They include only those on the list whose last names begin with A through E.

City Solicitor Gary D. Smith explained that those taxpayers were chosen for the 1975 delinquent tax returns because their names came out the city tax department's computer first. Before the rest of the delinquent accounts could be determined, Smith said the tax department staff had to begin collection procedures for last year's taxes.

However, the attorney added, once those collections are cleared up and the first 110 alleged delinquencies are dealt with, those reportedly delinquent taxpayers whose last names begin with F through Z will be prosecuted.

But what of the possible $20,000 owed from 1971 taxes?

The statute of limitations on failing to file tax returns is about 10 years, according to the city solicitor. He said the city has the same legal recourse of filing charges against those who never filed a 1971 return as those he didn't file in 1975. He expects to file complaints against them as well.

Smith said failing to file a tax return constitutes a first degree misdemeanor, which carries a maximum penalty upon conviction of $500 fine or six months in jail. He said he had a two-fold purpose in filing the charges. One was to make the delinquent taxpayers aware the city could and would

Suit dismissal bid 'premature'

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — An attorney representing 17 plaintiffs in Beverly Hills Supper Club damage suits labeled as "premature" a bid by the city of Southgate, Ky., to have many of the suits dismissed or refilled. Southgate is named as a defendant in the more than 30 suits seeking $1.5 billion in damages from the May 28 fire that killed 164 persons.

Cincinnati attorney Stanley Chesley, said the matter can be resolved through amendments.

In a legal response filed Thursday in U.S. District Court, Chesley took issue with a memo filed earlier this week by two Southgate attorneys. The memo contends that out-of-state executors or administrators can not file federal suits for plaintiffs in wrongful deaths. Most of the suits were filed by out-of-state attorneys on behalf of fire victims.

The memorandum requesting that the court dismiss the suits, forcing them to be refilled through the state court system.

Chesley claims that the memo was wrong, saying an out-of-state resident can qualify to sue, under Kentucky law, on behalf of a victim if the resident is related by blood, or in certain case, by marriage.

Chesley said the issue can be cleared up by having the plaintiff relative be named an ancillary (secondary) administrator by a county court in Kentucky.

Chesley's response asks the court to allow about 90 days to elapse before requiring the amendments.

DO YOU have the Saturday blahs? You can beat them by joining the staff at the Carnegie Public Library for an "emphasis" program.

If you are now in the first through third grades, you are eligible to join this special series planned especially for you. "Emphasis" will feature a different program every other week, focusing on books, poetry, films, puppets and stories about sports, fairy tales, monsters, animals and fantasy.

The first session of "Emphasis" will be held from 2 until 3 p.m. Oct. 8 at the library. The series will be held every other Saturday through Dec. 17.

If you don't want to miss out on the excitement, register for this free program today by visiting the Carnegie Public Library, 127 S. North St. between 10 a.m. and 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday or by calling 335-2540.

IF YOU wish to save flowers, pots or other decorations on graves at the Washington Cemetery, you'd better gather them up now.

Howard Bowdle, cemetery superintendent, said the annual fall cleanup will begin Oct. 1. That's when the leaves will start falling.

PERSONS wishing to save artificial flowers or decorative pots in the Sugar Creek Baptist or Methodist cemeteries should pick them up as soon as possible.

After Oct. 1, caretaker Alfred Lininger will clean the cemeteries for fall and dispose of any flowers or other ornaments remaining on graves.

Co-chairmen named for annual event

Christmas parade set Dec. 3

The annual Fayette County Christmas parade will be held Saturday, Dec. 3. Bart Mahoney and Rick Stinson will serve as co-chairmen of the 1977 parade.

The parade is sponsored annually by the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce, and both Mahoney and Stinson serve on the Chamber's board of directors. Financing for the parade will come from the Chamber's general fund and an allocation from the United Way campaign.

The parade preparation began with a flurry even before the chairmen were named. The Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club contacted the Chamber earlier this week to reserve a spot for a float in the parade lineup.

Both Stinson and Mahoney said they were pleased to hear of the Kiwanis Club entry. The purpose of the parade is to involve local groups in an activity for the enjoyment of local residents, and the Kiwanis Club participation is a major step in that direction, they said. Last year the parade included 14 homemade floats and 13 which were leased from commercial float firms. The chairmen are expecting an even greater number of homemade floats this year.

Nine homemade floats entered a local float judging contest in 1976 and were eligible for $350 in cash prizes. Details have not yet been arranged, but there will be at least $350 in cash prizes this year, and perhaps more.

The New Holland Methodist Church youth Fellowship group float took top honors and $100 in cash last year. Other cash award recipients were the Gregg Street Church of Christ in Christian Union, the Happy Star Belles Bluebird group, Girl Scout Troop 1056, the Washington Senior High School Cooperative Office Education class, and the Kiddie Care Day Care Center. Employees of the Washington C.H. Pizza Hut restaurant entered the only homemade float by a business concern, and the parade committee this year hopes to see other businesses and industries enter floats in 1977.

The greater the local participation in the parade, the more categories which can be created for cash awards.

Preparation for the Christmas parade did not begin until November last year, and as a result, several civic and youth groups felt they did not have time to create floats. An additional six weeks this year should produce a significant increase in the number of local floats.

THOSE GROUPS wishing to enter floats or other parade units in the 1977 Christmas parade are urged to contact the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce as soon as possible. Notification of intent to enter a homemade float is particularly important so that the chairmen can arrange categories and obtain prize money for each division.

The Chamber of Commerce is located at 133 S. Main St. The telephone number is 335-0761.

In addition to naming chairmen for the parade, several other matters were considered by the Chamber board of directors Thursday.

Six other committees were created to begin work for several other Chamber projects. Chamber president John Lachatt will head the president's committee on membership. Dan Kelly, Eddie Fisher, and Edwin Nestor will chair a committee studying recreational needs in the community. Romaine Hughes will head a committee to encourage area residents to shop at home.

Hugh Wilson and Gary Butts will chair a committee to plan the Chamber's annual Fun Night program. Joe

Tavern owner wins lottery

CLEVELAND (AP) — Akron tavern owner Robert Ratzow, who says he buys 20 to 30 lottery tickets a week, finally hit a big one.

The 65-year-old Ratzow won $25,000 Thursday night and gets to come back to the televised game show next week for another try.

Under the rules of the lottery's 50-cent game, Ratzow will have a chance at $50,000 next week. Each week that he wins, the prize will double to a maximum of $500,000.

With his winnings, Ratzow, who spends six days a week in his Bar-Tell Bar, said he expects to take life a little easier now. He said his wife, Helen, died in 1975.

Other winners included George Mattox of Cincinnati, $7,000; Andy Wettrich, Clyde, $7,000; and June Reasoner, Cleveland, $7,300.

Here are the numbers pulled in the weekly number drawing: Lucky Buck: 565; 897517. Fifty-cent game: 524; 53; 6; 025119.

Opposition to proposed work voiced at public hearing

Commissioners reject petitions for Wildman Ditch project

By RICK WHAITE
Record-Herald Staff Writer

After a 2½-hour public hearing, the Fayette County Board of Commissioners unanimously voted to deny a petition for improvement of the Wildman Ditch.

Over half of the 50 to 60 persons attending the hearing individually expressed their opposition to the proposed project. The commission's vote ended a year-long, often controversial, attempt to widen, clear, deepen and straighten the Wildman Ditch, a project that would have cost $103,000.

Of the approximately 30 people who addressed the commissioners and the Fayette County engineering staff, only two actually favored the project. One woman, Sheila Conley, favored the improvements because of the requirement for a new bridge crossing the ditch along Oakland Avenue. That portion of the proposed project, nearly one-third of the total cost, had been assessed to the city of Washington C.H.

City Solicitor Gary D. Smith and City Council Chairman Bertha McCullough both told the commissioners the assessment for the new Oakland Avenue bridge should at least be shared by residents benefitting from the construction, that is, those using the bridge.

Mrs. McCullough said, "We did not petition for the bridge. We know we need a new bridge, but we did not petition for it." She also questioned whether taxpayers were paying county engineers as public officials and the project's proposed $4,700 engineering fees did not constitute a double payment for those services.

Fayette County Engineer Donald Conley told said the fees would not go to him personally, but to the county's maintenance and repair fund.

However, the majority of public opposition came from property owners in and around the improvement area. And most of those objections centered around the one-time assessments they would have paid according to the amount of land affected by the project.

Delbert Haines, 441 Bush Road, said he considered both the number of acres included in the county engineer's assessment and the dollar value of the assessment on his property to be excessive. Another woman, in effect seconding Haines' sentiments, objected to a $680 assessment on only two acres of land she and her husband own.

Others, such as Carl Snider, 350 Staunton-Sugar Grove Road, disagreed with the engineer's calculations of the direction of water flow from their land and the actual benefits to that land by the proposed improvements.

However, overwhelmingly, the opposition was directed at how two private petitioners could, in effect, force a larger majority of landowners to pay for a drainage project they opposed. As the hearing neared its end, one man asked Commission Chairman Ray D. Warner, "Doesn't the majority rule?"

Warner's answer: "No, not always." But Commissioner Robert Mace also answered the question saying it is possible for one person to favor a project and 100 to oppose it and the board still approve the proposal if the project's general benefits exceed costs and disadvantages to the public.

Warner thanked the audience for attending the hearing and expressing their views. He explained that the board's role was to not favor or oppose the project, but to sit in judgment of the proposal. He also noted that if the Wildman Ditch project was approved, any citizen has the right to appeal the decision through the Common Pleas Court. The right of appeal also applied to any citizen favoring the project if it were rejected by the commissioners.

Warner then explained the board had three choices concerning Wildman Ditch: grant the petition; deny the petition; or adjourn the hearing for further study.

The crowd applauded special appointee to the board for the Wildman Ditch hearings Clifford Hughes when he said, "I cannot go along with the assessments. They are completely out of line with anything I've ever come up against."

Hughes was appointed to the board of commissioners by Fayette County Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman when Commissioner Laurence A. (Bucky) Dumford was exempted from sitting in on the hearings because he owns land affected by the proposed project. Hughes also said he couldn't understand how the engineers could use one formula for the assessments "straight down the line." He indicated individual landowners should have been assessed according to individual circumstances.

The special appointee had prefaced his comments by stating he had over 50 years of combined experience as a farm owner, farm manager and county commissioner. Following his statements, Hughes made a motion that the previous order for the petition be rescinded and the petition be denied.

Several minutes passed without a sound. Warner then had the board's secretary Judy Rambo to read the motion and called for a second. Mace immediately seconded the motion and a roll call vote unanimously denied the Wildman Ditch project.

Asked if he would appeal the commissioners' decision, one of the petitioners, Joe White, 1673 U.S. 35-NW, said he had no plans to appeal.

Carter discusses Lance future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bert Lance invited the people to be his jury, but President Carter says in the end he and Lance will sit down friend to friend to decide whether the budget director will survive in the job he is fighting to hold.

"I am sure that the decision that I make along with Bert Lance ... will be satisfactory to the American people," Carter said Thursday in a question-and-answer session with members of the Radio and Television News Directors Association.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said he had no idea when the decision on Lance's future will be made except that it will be after the former Georgia banker's testimony to a Senate committee. Asked how much public opinion will enter into the decision, Powell said:

"If we have shown anything at all in this, it is that we are willing to take a considerable amount of heat and shed some blood If we had ever intended to base what we were going to do on a public opinion poll, we wouldn't have gotten into it this far."

Carter spoke by telephone to the association's annual convention in San Francisco. Hours before, in Washington, Lance had told the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee investigating his finances that he wants the American people to be "the jury in this proceeding."

Lance, who got best wishes from Carter at 6:30 a. m. in the President's study, denied to the committee that there were irregularities in his financial dealings when he headed two Georgia banks.

The committee hearings may extend into next week. Carter said he will read Lance's testimony.

"If I believed all of the charges or allegations against Bert Lance that I have read or heard through the news media, I would have discharged him immediately," the President said. "Some of those allegations I know to be incorrect, and the ones that prove to be correct, of course, I will have to make a judgment on them."

"But I have no reason to feel that Bert Lance is dishonest or incompetent, nor that he is acting unethically. The propriety of Bert's loans, overdrafts and so forth, obviously, will be assessed by me."

prosecute. The other purpose was a more hopeful one, he noted, and that was to get those delinquencies cleared up by the filing of returns and payment of taxes.

If those delinquencies cannot be cleared up voluntarily, the court does have an option to force defendants to settle their account with the city upon their conviction.

Smith noted, "There is no provision in the ordinance for ordering returns to be filed and taxes paid." He said the ordinance only provides for a fine or a sentence or both.

However, he added that a practice used by some judges is to sentence a defendant, then suspend the sentence on the condition he files a return and makes restitution for the taxes owed. "This is what we're hoping the judge will do," the solicitor said.

Chamber membership was discussed at length. At present the Chamber has received $21,000 in memberships fees. With a budget of nearly $35,000, considerable work needs to be done in that area.

The board also voted to terminate presented memberships which have not renewed for 1977-1978 by Oct. 1. All present members will be contacted for renewal prior to that date.

Stock market moves ahead

NEW YORK (AP) —The stock market moved ahead today on the news of a decline in the basic measure of the money supply.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials picked up about 2 points in early trading.

Gainers opened up a 3-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

At the close on Thursday the Federal Reserve reported an $800 million decline in the narrowly defined money supply.

Analysts said the data eased fears of any further tightening of credit by the Fed in the immediate future.

Today's early prices included General Motors, up 1/4 at 69 1/2; American Telephone & Telegraph, off 1/4 at 62 1/4; and General Electric, unchanged at 53 1/4.

On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average posted a 2.08 gain to 860.79.

Gainers outpaced losers by about a 3-2 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 18.23 million shares, against 17.33 million Wednesday.

The NYSE's composite index rose .15 to 52.94, and the American Stock Exchange market value index was up .10 at 118.26.

But, cancer warning may be included

Saccharin products likely to remain on grocery shelves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diet sodas and other products containing saccharin are likely to remain on store shelves for at least another 18 months, but they probably will have to carry a cancer warning similar to that printed on cigarette packages.

While there is agreement on the need for a cancer warning, a fierce congressional fight is developing over whether manufacturers should also be required to include a similar warning when they advertise products containing saccharin.

The Senate voted 87 to 7 Thursday to block a government ban on saccharin, which had been scheduled to take effect Oct. 1. The vote also approved the requirement that cancer warnings be placed on all products containing the artificial sweetener.

Vending machines selling such products would also have to post the warning, as would displays in supermarkets.

During the 18-month moratorium on the saccharin ban, the government will study health risks and benefits of the artificial sweetener, which has been linked to bladder cancer in laboratory animals.

The Senate-passed bill probably will win approval by the House, which gets to act on it next. House members have gone on record as favoring the delay on the saccharin ban. They voted for such a postponement earlier this year as part of another piece of legislation — a tactic the Senate didn't go along with at the time.

While there is widespread congressional support for delaying the ban and requiring a warning on saccharin products, the real controversy is over advertising.

The Senate stripped from the bill a provision that would have required cancer warnings in printed advertising or in radio or television commercials for products containing saccharin.

That action prompted the bill's sponsor, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to repudiate the legislation. Kennedy said allowing saccharin products to be advertised without appropriate warnings "goes against the recommendation of every health expert in this country."

Kennedy and others who want the advertising warnings — including the Carter administration — are now looking to the House to revive the proposal. A House health subcommittee has approved the saccharin legislation — but without such a provision — in a bill that goes before the full House Commerce Committee for a vote next week.

The Senate bill would require saccharin products to carry this label:

"WARNING: THIS PRODUCT CONTAINS SACCHARIN WHICH CAUSES CANCER IN ANIMALS. USE OF THIS PRODUCT MAY INCREASE YOUR RISK OF DEVELOPING CANCER."

The Food and Drug Administration announced the proposed ban last spring, citing a Canadian study, which showed that saccharin, when fed in high doses to laboratory rats, caused cancer.

A subsequent Canadian study concluded that human male saccharin users have an increased risk of developing bladder cancer. The ban, which would not affect over-the-counter sales of saccharin as a non-prescription drug, has been delayed several times but is now scheduled to take effect on Oct. 1.

Cool weather covers nation

By The Associated Press

Cool weather continued over the Pacific Northwest and New England early today. Temperatures in the 40s and 50s stretched from Washington and Oregon to the northern Rockies, and from northern New England into northeastern New York.

The cooler air should move into the Dakotas — and it's triggering some thunderstorms.

Light precipitation fell early today in the northwest. Isolated showers and thunderstorms were in Montana and a few showers dampened Oregon.

Elsewhere in the nation, temperatures are closer to seasonal levels — mostly in the 60s and 70s.

Most of the precipitation nationwide early today was over the upper Ohio River valley and through the southern Appalachians. But other thundershowers were scattered from western Texas through the Plains, and in Florida and the Carolinas.

Most of the nation had cloudy skies overnight, but California, the southern intermountain region and parts of Texas and Minnesota were clear.

Mrs. Wallace files counter divorce suit

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Cornelia Wallace says the reason her marriage to Gov. George C. Wallace broke up was "not incompatibility but the commission of actual violence and cruelty" against her by Wallace "with danger to her life and health."

Mrs. Wallace made the accusation in a counter suit for divorce filed Thursday, three days after the governor filed for divorce on grounds of incompatibility. There was no elaboration on the charge.

She asked the court to award her a divorce and to grant her "liberal sums as alimony support and maintenance."

Sterling Culpepper, one of Wallace's attorneys, said, "Of course, the governor will deny all the allegations. An appropriate denial will be filed within the next few days."

Mrs. Wallace, 38, and Wallace, 58, were married on Jan. 4, 1971. Each had been married previously.

Opinion And Comment

The drought's impact

The tremendous impact of this year's drought, which on a nationwide basis affected two out of three counties is dramatized by the flood of applications for low-interest government loans. Federal agencies report that their disaster loan funds already have been exhausted, yet they expect applications to total nearly $8 billion.

The applications are coming from farmers who lost their crops, and from businessmen and communities hit by the drought. They have been coming in at such a rate that the Small Business Administration announced a two-week moratorium - which was promptly rescinded under heavy pressure to keep the channels open.

There is an almost ludicrous gap between the total being requested and the amount available for this purpose; the SBA allocated only $70 million to its disaster loan fund for physical losses in fiscal 1978. Billions more would have to be appropriated by Congress to meet the need.

The official line at the SBA now is that it hopes to grant about $5 billion in drought disaster loans. Only a small fraction of that amount has yet been appropriated, leaving a big problem for budget experts to wrestle with. Wrestle they must, for the situation demands a strong response.

In view of the number of applications, however, it may become necessary to adopt some system of prorating available funds. One reason for the huge sum being requested is that the SBA interprets its loan authority to permit loaning up to half a million dollars to an individual farmer to cover crop losses. The agency may have to draw back and place a lower limit on individual loans in order to assure some help for all who genuinely need it.

THESE DAYS.... By John Chamberlain

A conservative media coming up?

Is the Age of Miracles returning? The Amway Corp. of Ada, Mich., has announced that it has agreed "in principle" to buy the Mutual Broadcasting Corp., whose radio network serves some 720 stations.

The "miracle" in this case is that Amway's two founders, and private owners, Jay Van Andel and Richard DeVos, are both 100 per cent free enterprisers, as the name of their company, a contraction of American Way, bears witness. If convinced capitalists are coming into the market for broadcasting systems, which have been run more often than not by present-day liberals who seldom give the enterprise system an even break, we could be in for a new order of enlightened communications.

This is not to cast aspersions on Mutual, which has been fairer than other broadcasting companies. The point to be made is that Van Andel and DeVos are persons of uncommon devotion to principle who would make things hot for backsliders from the American Way throughout the whole communications media.

Amway, a direct-selling company, has always piqued my curiosity. Any accepted salesman-distributor of Amway products (detergents, soap and the like) can sponsor other distributors, getting a cut on that business.

The miracle is that the creators of a novel way of sharing the wealth of capitalist enterprise have decided they must become responsible for news, the reporting of special events, the discussion of public affairs, and advertising services.

And there may be still another miracle in the offing. Former Sen. Jim Buckley and former Secretary of the Treasury Bill Simon, tired of seeing New York City's political news filtered through liberal eyes, have raised some (not all) of the money necessary to float a new daily newspaper in metropolitan New York. Something like $4 million in working capital is still necessary to get the projected paper, The Trib, off the ground. The new journal can't be called the Tribune because of copyright law, which will hold the name of the late lamented New York Herald-Tribune off the market despite the fact that it is not being used.

But the aim of Len Saffir, who used to work for Jim Buckley in Washington, and John Denson, the resident makeup genius of the old Herald-Tribune, in presenting The Trib would be to offer a paper something on the order of the Herald-Tribune, i.e., a journal far less voluminous than the New York Times but with enough command of the old virtue of terseness to get everything important into a story.

New York City has had to make do with two liberal papers, the Times and the New York Post, that offer only token obeisances to the conservative philosophy. Its third paper, the News, is an offshoot to the Times and Post if you stick to its editorial comment but lacks room for full coverage of the news, and its habit of picking up flashy radicals (Pete Hamill, formerly of the Post, is one) gives it an equivocal flavor, to say the least. So a fourth and predominantly conservative starter is needed to give New York journalism some balance.

Speaking of miracles, Joe Coors, the Rocky Mountain beer tycoon, should get a magnum of credit for providing the seed money that has given us a new quarterly, Policy Review published by the Heritage Foundation in Washington. The first issue of Policy Review contains a remarkable article by Kenneth Clarkson and Roger Meiners called "The Spurious Increase in the Unemployment Rates."

It seems that numerous people who have no plans of even necessity to work have been getting themselves registered as "unemployed" just to become available for food stamps. This has skewed the unemployment statistics. Along with other "faker" job applicants (from among families with dependent children and Indians on "general aid"), this accounts for a bias in the unemployment rate of some two percentage points.

We need more capitalist miracle workers to live up our controversy and to bring us back from the edge of the Fabian abyss that threatens England. But we will be making a good beginning if the Mutual sale goes through, if the Trib gets on the newsstands, and the quarterly Policy Review prospers.

"FOR WHEN THE YANKEES COME, SI, SENOR."

Increased mental health care sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Between 20 million and 32 million Americans need mental health care, a new report to the government says, but help is often unavailable because of inadequate community services, costs that are too high or the stigma of mental illness.

"The time has come for mental health care to become part of a broader effort to deal with human needs," concludes the preliminary report of the President's Commission on Mental Health, released today.

The report notes that 15 per cent of the population need some form of help, ranging from counseling to long-term care, not counting the six million who are mentally retarded.

At any one time, the report adds, about 25 per cent of the country is under enough emotional stress that a doctor might diagnose such people as suffering from depression or anxiety.

About 15 per cent of the school-age population needs help at a time, the commission found, while noting that people aged 65 and over have the highest incidence of mental health problems.

The report says minorities and the country's rural population have special problems. Social and economic conditions make these people vulnerable to psychological and emotional distress, the report said.

The commission said individuals who need attention include those who "suffer the effects of a variety of societal ills ... the alienation and fear, the depression and anger associated with unrelenting poverty and the institutionalized discrimination that occurs on the basis of race, sex, class, age and mental and physical handicaps."

First Lady Rosalynn Carter is the honorary chairman of the 20-member commission which is making 14 specific recommendations to President Carter.

The recommendations, according to a commission spokesman, would require no new legislation, virtually no additional funds and could be implemented by executive action.

The commission requested more aid for group care facilities through programs in the Department of Housing and Urban Development plus sizable increases in budgets for government programs dealing with mental health, alcoholism and drug abuse problems.

New recreation facilities set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — More than $1 million in new recreation facilities at Barkcamp State Park in Belmont County will be dedicated Monday.

The facilities include a special fishing area for handicapped persons, expansion of an existing camping area and a new service building heated by solar energy.

Yesterday's Cryptquote: A SINGLE CONVERSATION ACROSS THE TABLE WITH A WISE MAN IS WORTH A MONTH'S STUDY OF BOOKS.—CHINESE ADAGE

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Hardworking single a prime commodity

DEAR ABBY: For five years now, I have been a therapist in a rehabilitation clinic. In my work I see drug addicts, alcoholics and all kinds of men who can't work due to problems they've brought on themselves, and I'm amazed to find that most of them have loyal wives and girlfriends to back them up.

I am a hardworking man of good character with no bad habits, and I'm still alone and single.

Abby, why would a woman ignore a man with qualifications to stick by a drug addict or alcoholic? Sometimes I wonder if I am on the wrong side of the fence.

Isn't there a place in the social marketplace for a good, hardworking man with no bad habits?

DEAR DILEMMA: Most women who stick by the kind of men you treat do not see an alcoholic or drug addict; they see a man they love with a drug or alcohol problem. Obviously, those men must have done something to earn such loyalty and devotion.

And yes, there is a place in the social marketplace for a good working man with no bad habits. Keep looking, but don't compete with your patients.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 19, work in a large office and people tell me that I'm pretty and have a nice personality. I never had any trouble getting dates, but here's my problem. All the guys think I'm "hot stuff." Maybe the fact that I measure 38-26-36 has something to do with it, but I can't help it.

I am definitely NOT hot stuff, Abby. I am very picky when it comes to guys, and nobody gets a thing off me, but they all try it on the very first date.

What's wrong with me? I want guys to respect me, but this "hot stuff" label defeats me before I have a chance to prove it's not true.

DEAR HOT: Check your packaging. Do you wear "come hither" clothes? Check your language. (Do you "tease" without realizing it?) And finally check the look in your eye. Nobody has every made a pass at a statue.

DEAR ABBY: I've been told that when I eat at a restaurant and the owner serves me, I shouldn't leave a tip because the owner would feel insulted.

They way I see it, the owner has served me, so why isn't she (or he) entitled to a tip as an employee? A tip is a way of thanking someone for the good service.

Some say that only waiters and waitresses should be tipped because their living depends on it, which is not the case with the owners.

I would appreciate hearing from you, or from some restaurant owners on this matter so I'll know what to do in the future.

DEAR UNSURE: When in doubt, tip. If the owner is "insulted," he or she will let you know.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "VERY MUCH IN LOVE" IN TOLEDO: I think you're making a big mistake. The only married man worth waiting for is your own husband.

Don't rest on past laurels. You can meet and, in certain situations, surpass the competition. Be careful not to push too hard or at the wrong time, however.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)

Helpful influences, but you will have to be alert, nevertheless. You may have to try a new tack or make changes in pre-set plans, but they should be for the better.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)

An excellent period for broadening your outlook, introducing new ideas and systems into your regular program. But do not switch position or tactics in a way that betokens instability.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)

A good spot for your aggressive forces, your alertness and inventiveness. Do use them for sound purposes.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

If faced with a quick change or unusual situation, don't reject summarily. Maintain poise and consider all factors before making a decision.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Do not be swayed by your emotions. Objectivity will bring you a clearer view of all situations. A romantic involvement will call for an especially perceptive eye.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

A good period for everyday matters and, in some respects, for the unusual and extraordinary. Look for some good news in the p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Stars warn against vacillating, changing plans or projects before they have been given a fair chance. Steady does it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Maintain a calm attitude in all situations, and you can avoid a lot of frustration. Stress tact in all dealings — especially with members of the opposite sex.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Trade ideas, reach for wider horizons: They broaden as you gain more ground, knowledge. Think big, but do not step so briskly that you overlook details.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

Influences, somewhat adverse now, suggest that you avoid antagonizing others. If necessary to assert your viewpoint during discussion, do so dispassionately.

YOU BORN TODAY are highly enthusiastic individual, vivacious and gregarious of personality. You have a penchant for unusual activities. Indeed, you like activity itself, but tend to overtax yourself at times. Try to curb this tendency, as well as an inclination to go to extremes. Your talents are many and, with proper education and development, you could succeed at almost any vocation you choose, as well as an avocation — which would probably be along creative lines. Fields for which you are best suited, however, include writing, teaching, acting, finance or geology.

MR. and MRS. ROBERT CASE

'Open House' is planned for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Case

Open house marking the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Case of 204 E. Paint St., Washington C. H., will be held from 2 to 4 p. m. Saturday, Sept. 24 in Fellowship Hall of Grace United Methodist Church.

Hosts for the event will be their children, Mr. and Mrs. William Case and granddaughter, Kimberly.

Mr. Case and the former Marjorie Fullerton were married in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Fullerton, by the Rev. George Sproule, on Sept. 24, 1927.

Relatives and friends are cordially invited to attend the open house at the church to join in the celebration with Mr. and Mrs. Case. It is requested that gifts be omitted.

Major Samuel Myers Chapter U.S. Daughters of 1812 meet

The Major Samuel Myers Chapter, U. S. Daughters of 1812, celebrated the beginning of the new year with a luncheon in the Staunton Fellowship Hall on Monday, Sept. 12. There were 20 members and 10 guests present. Visitors from other chapters were Mrs. Van Ruten McBride and Mrs. Charles Moots from General Douglas McArthur, Chillicothe; and Mrs. William Monter, General William Henry Harrison, Cincinnati. Other guests were Mrs. B. M. Marlin of Middletown; Mrs. Lavon Kerns of Wilmington; Mrs. Betty McCarrick of Miami, Fla.; Mrs. Maryon Mark, Mrs. Marie Mace, Mrs. Marjorie Mayhew and Mrs. Frank Reichelderfer.

Instead of a formal blessing, Mrs. Willard Bitzer, president, assisted by chaplain Mrs. Gerie Spragg, used the Ritual, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance, the Salute to the Flag of 1812, and the American's Creed.

After a lovely luncheon, the Daughters had the privilege of listening to Mrs. David Fabb, violinist, accompanied by Mrs. Frank Creamer, as they played "Arioso" Bach, "To a Wild Rose" McDowell and "Liebesfreud" Kreisler. Then they heard the new state president, Mrs. Urban C. Livengood, speak on "Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," the heritage of yesterday that one tries to preserve for tomorrow.

Comrades study Simon Peter

The Comrades of the Second Mile met in the home of Mrs. Donald Denen. Mrs. Joe Giebelhouse, president, opened the meeting with the poem "A Friend" by Herbert Parker. Devotions were given by Mrs. Alice Cory reading from the Book of Matthew. Program booklets were distributed to members and the theme for the year will be Jesus and His Twelve Disciples.

Mrs. Mary Foster gave a very interesting program on Simon Peter. She mentioned that Peter was the most prominent and most mentioned of the 12 disciples. The first Epistle of Peter was written by Him, but evidence as to the second Epistle is not so clear. It is believed that the Gospel of Mark is derived from Peter's account of the life of his Master. After many years the Roman took Peter prisoner in the reign of Nero and crucified him. Peter declared that he was not worthy to be crucified as was his Master and his request was to be crucified head downward, a request which the Romans readily granted. Mrs. Foster closed the program by reading from the Book of Acts.

Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Alice Cory.

Members present were Mrs. Alvin Writsel, Mrs. Grace Iden, Mrs. Robert Parrett, Mrs. Eli Craig, Mrs. Richard Snyder, Mrs. Edgar McFadden, Mrs. Don Mossbarger, Mrs. Glenn Heistand, Mrs. Gilbert Biddle, Mrs. Dale Thornton, Mrs. Lydia LaFollette, Mrs. Richard Thompson, Mrs. Dan Thompson, Mrs. Jack Sollars, Mrs. Denen, Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Cory, Mrs. Willard Bitzer and Mrs. Giebelhouse.

Mrs. Marjory Swartz of Casa Grande, Ariz., is visiting family members and friends in Washington C. H. She is the houseguest of Mrs. Esta Swartz of 648 Yeoman St.

Education Association officers

The Washington Education Association Executive Council held its first meeting of the school year on Wednesday at Belle-Aire School. President Melanie Merriman introduced the officers elected to serve during 1977-78. They are: George Shoemaker, first vice president; Susan Cleary, second vice president; Cyndi Morton, treasurer; Vicky Bailey, secretary; and Bob Bane, parliamentarian.

Building representatives elected to serve this year are Maggie Owen and John Aber, from Washington Senior High; Lynn Shoemaker and Kirk Thompson, Middle School; Carol Heinz and Claudia Coe, Eastside; Carolyn Haggard and Jane Ann Redd, Belle-Aire; Lois Morris, Rose Avenue; and Betty Eakins, Cherry Hill.

Standing committee members were also announced. Serving on the Curriculum committee will be Sara Johnson and Cindy Sagar. The Professional Relations committee will consist of George Shoemaker, chairman; Tom Gauldin, Dixie Rea, Norma Wilson and Denzil Leggett. Mrs. Wilson and Mr. Leggett will also serve as the negotiating team. The Public Relations committee is composed of Ann Elcess, Mary Lorraine Davis and Susan Cleary. Serving on the Voting committee will be Lynne Anthony and Kathy Monroe. Dixie Rea will be the representative to Uniserve.

In support of the Offsides Game, 50 tickets will be purchased by WEA to be given to students throughout the school system.

A general membership meeting was scheduled to be held at 3:45 p. m. Oct. 12, in the Senior High cafeteria, at which time candidates for the City School Board will be invited to speak to the group.

BPW committee announces plans

The home of Norita Craycraft was opened to members of the Business and Professional Women's Club who serve the club this year in the role of Civic Participation. This committee of women, active in local club work, have planned an exciting evening for the regular meeting date of Oct. 18. The October meeting will be just one highlight in a series of events during the week of Oct. 16-23. This week has been designated as National Business and Professional Women's Week. Plans for other things of interest to members of the club, women in BPW in the community, and the community as a whole, will be announced at a later date.

BPW Club members are reminded the Civic Participation Committee is spearheading the project of Christmas gifts for patients in the State Hospital. Information concerning this project may be found in the Bulletin.

Mary Lou Christman, president of the local BPW Club, attended the meeting. She reminded those present of the 1977-78 theme "Change: Challenge and Response" and accepted suggestions for following through on this idea. Her request was met with a heartening response and an hour of stimulating discussion followed. The president graciously received views and suggestions from members for consideration.

Miss Craycraft and co-chairman Mrs. Bertha McCullough served a dessert course to committee members Catherine Hyer, Marilyn Mallow, Lena Smith, Patricia VanMeter, Bulletin representative, and Mary Margaret Merritt, representative from Public Relations.

Mrs. Glen Hidy entertains homemakers

The Bloomingburg Homemakers Club met with Mrs. Glenn Hidy for a potluck dinner and meeting. Mrs. Gladys Bloomer read "Hour of Plenty" for the opening. Reports were made and projects of the making of laprobes, a quilt and mending sheets for a nursing home were discussed by the 15 present.

Mrs. Bloomer read an Indian Prayer for the closing. Mrs. N. F. Kier of Springfield, was a guest.

Zeta chapter reviews plans

The Sept. 13 meeting of Zeta Upsilon was held in the home of Mrs. Vivian Houghton. President Mary Lewis presided during the business session, when the budget for the year was announced, and Rhonda Grubb appointed secretary. Names for prospective pledges were submitted.

The social committee finalized plans for the hayride Sept. 24, to be held at the home of Bob and Kendra Knecht, at 7:30 p. m. A skating party, planned for 6:30 until 9:30 p. m. Dec. 1 at Roller Haven, was also discussed by the Ways and Means committee. The next meeting will be at 8 p. m. Sept. 24 at the home of Mrs. Karen Jones.

Kaye Huber then introduced Father David Petry, who discussed his philosophy of family and marriage. To improve communication, five suggestions were made by Father Petry. His topic and film proved to be very enlightening and led to many questions and comments by everyone.

Refreshments were served by Wanda Coil and Vivian Houghton to Father Petry, Kathy Halverson, Mary Lewis, Janet Wilson, Debbie Smith, Kaye Huber, Karen Jones, Claudia Tippet, Cheryl Geyer, Kendra Knecht, Rhonda Grubb and Katy Dolan.

Staunton UMW hold meeting

Mrs. Donald Pemberton was hostess when the Staunton United Methodist Women met in her home for a meeting and program.

The program topic was "I'm Talking to Myself and What am I Saying?" by Beth Bishop, who teaches at Community College, Grayslake, Ill. Members participating were Mrs. Harry Hayslip, Mrs. Alice Bush, Mrs. Elza Smith and Mrs. Wilbur Hidy.

The purpose was to become more aware of views and ones self, and to consider possibilities of change and growth.

New officers elected were Mrs. Walter Parrett, president; Mrs. Smith, first vice president; Mrs. Bush, second vice president; Mrs. Pemberton, secretary; Mrs. Jed Stuckey, assistant; Mrs. J.O. Wilson, treasurer; Mrs. Ann Barney, assistant.

Cheer cards were sent and birthdays remembered. Plans were made for various activities at Staunton Fellowship Hall, and there were 56 calls and visits reported.

Those present were Mrs. Stuckey, Mrs. Parrett, Mrs. Bush, Mrs. Barney, Mrs. Hayslip, Mrs. Pemberton, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Hidy and Mrs. Florence Bethards.

Mrs. Hayslip will be the October hostess.

Progressive Heirs

The Progressive Heirs Child Conservation League dined at Wardell's Party House recently for the first meeting of the year. Invited guests were Mrs. Jim Clawson, Mrs. Dan Wolford and Mrs. Gerald Griffith.

Mrs. Neal Brady presented the treasurer's report, which was primarily concerned with the proceeds from the plant party. Proceeds which were made at the May 4 plant party were donated to the Jeffersonville Life Squad, and used to purchase items needed by the Squad, for treatment of children.

President Rita Huffman announced the date of the CCL Convention, for members interested in attending. The calendar of events for the coming year was the main topic of discussion.

The next meeting is to be at the home of Mrs. Brady with Mrs. Willard Coil as the co-hostess on Oct. 5, at 7 p. m.

Members present were Mrs. Steve Huffman, Mrs. Roger Snyder, Mrs. Fred Doyle, Mrs. Delmar Mann, Mrs. Brady and Mrs. Coil.

Congressional Democrats curbing 'Koreagate' probe?

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — There are signs that the Democratic leadership may be tampering with the "Koreagate" investigation.

Sources close to the investigation cite the curious timing, for instance, of the indictment against Korean payoff man, Tongsun Park. The indictment was sprung on Park just as he was about to return from Seoul to London.

He abruptly changed his plans and stayed in South Korea, which has no extradition treaty with the United States. This means Park, the central figure in the investigation, is safely out of reach of U.S. investigators.

It looks as if the Justice Dept. wanted credit for indicting Park without the necessity of putting him on the witness stand, our sources suggest. They say he could have been extradited from Britain if he had been allowed to return.

Other sources contend that Democratic congressional leaders have sought to confine the House investigation to a few expendable former members, thus hopefully satisfying public opinion without damaging Congress.

The Democrats are also searching quietly but intently for Republicans who may have accepted gifts of cash, trips and women from South Korean agents. The purpose is to prevent the Koreagate scandal from becoming a partisan political issue.

Democratic insiders acknowledge that they would like to cap the Korea volcano and halt the daily eruptions. But they stress that their intent is not to cover up any crimes but to prevent unfair charges from spewing forth. Here are the particulars:

Tongsun Park skipped to London last fall just as the Justice Dept. began to focus on him. Yet the department took no precautions to prevent his flight and made no move to extradite him.

This troubled several conscientious congressmen, led by Reps. Jerome Ambro and Liz Holtzman, both New York Democrats, who are eager to clean up the House. They pressed Attorney General Griffin Bell to take whatever legal steps are necessary to bring Park back to Washington to testify.

On August 5, Ambro and Holtzman called upon the attorney general and again urged him to indict Park. This would give the United States legal grounds to ask Britain to extradite him, they argued. But Bell replied it would be unethical to indict Park without sufficient evidence to convict him.

Our Justice Dept. sources confirm that the case against Park is weak. As a businessman, he could hand out campaign contributions, quite legally, on Capitol Hill. The prosecutors must prove that he was acting as a foreign agent to bribe congressmen. Most of the evidence, unfortunately, is contained in intercepted messages, which may not be admissible in court.

Yet the political pressure kept building up, our sources say, until the Justice Dept. went ahead with the indictment that Bell had said would be unethical. But significantly, the 36-count indictment wasn't prepared until a week after Park was safely out of Britain.

Park's Washington attorney, William Hundley, kept the department informed about his client's whereabouts, insiders tell us. On August 25, Hundley notified the department that Park had telephoned him from Hong Kong to report he was on his way to Korea to visit his ailing mother. Not long afterward, Park called again from Seoul to say that the Korean authorities wanted him to hold a short press conference and that he would leave for London in 10 days.

The day after Hundley reported this to the Justice Dept., Park was abruptly indicted, and the news was leaked to the press. This had the predictable effect of keeping Park in South Korea, where he is safe from extradition.

Our sources insist that the Justice Dept. could have brought Park back to America by indicting him before he left Britain or later by holding up the indictment until he returned to Britain. To insiders, the poor timing appeared to be a deliberate attempt to botch the investigation.

We made repeated requests to speak to the attorney general, but he would not discuss the story with us. Sources close to him believe Griffin Bell is a man of integrity, who would not tamper with the Koreagate investigation. The official in charge of the probe, Paul Mitchell, also has a reputation as a straight-faced prosecutor. Hundley refused to comment.

On Capitol Hill, Speaker Tip O'Neill and Democratic leader Jim Wright persuaded Leon Jaworski, the former Watergate special prosecutor, to run the House investigation into the Korean scandal. Sources close to the House leadership say O'Neill, Wright and Jaworski agreed they couldn't "burn" too many members of Congress but should merely "sacrifice a few lambs." limit the investigation. Then we hurried to catch Wright but the speaker got to him first. We caught Wright going out the door. He had been summoned, he said, to the speaker's office. When he returned, he reiterated the speaker's denial. We were unable to reach Jaworski until some time later. The alleged conversation about sacrificing lambs, he said, was "absolutely ludicrous."

But a principle in the Korean investigation told us he had "received" indications from the House that they would like to concentrate on a few former members." The Democrats, he said, also want to implicate some Republicans in the scandal to keep it out of partisan politics.

m, knocks Powell out and decamps with Heather to the uncertainty of the outside world.

This causes pursuit by three Sandmen; a visit to a pacifistic tribe gone underground in Washington, D.C.; a joust with horse-mounted, ray-gun bearing "Riders" and much trouble in Mountain City.

Fans of "Star Wars" may dig this sci-fi jaunt, but be warned: Much of the show is padded peril. You may wind up urging the fugitives to surrender on charges of anticlimax and aggravated fleeing.

Earlier tonight, NBC premieres "Sanford Arms," the junkyard series that underwent radical changes after Redd Foxx and Desmond Wilson left what used to be "Sanford and Son."

Their rundown home now is a rundown hotel operated by Phil Wheeler (played by Theodore Wilson, an extremely good, capable actor).

Wheeler is a widower, an Army vet trying to meet the hotel's $300 monthly mortgage while coping with the looney lady (LaWanda Page) and raising his two kids (Tina Andrews and John Earl).

The plot, about the mortgage, is a mile thin, but the pace and acting is first-rate. It's a better show than what it replaced.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — CBS' new version of "Logan's Run" starts tonight. Like "The Fugitive" of yesteryear, there's a whole lot of fleeing going on. Only now the year is 2319.

The lead fugitives, Gregory Harrison and Heather Menzies, are on the lam from the law because it limits their lives to 30 years. Which means they'll never get to open a diaper service in Sun City, I guess.

Their 90-minute "Run" tonight features good acting, lavish sets, fine special effects, but poops out after a rousing start.

The start is in the Domed City. There, 200 years after a nuclear holocaust ends most life on earth, a computer-run "Perfect Society" providing for all human needs is underway underground.

A problem: There's just so much room available. So each birth is matched by a departure. Everyone hitting 30 must go to the "Carousel" to be wafted (great wafting here) up to a "great sleep."

Such actions occur as crowds of younger folks, possibly series producers, cry, "Renew! Renew!"

All are told they'll be reborn again. But there are doubters. Some even try to escape and reach age 31. They're "runners." The gendarmes assigned to stop them, permanently, are called "Sandmen."

Harrison is in trouble. He's a doubting Sandman. He meets Heather while chasing a runner she's aiding. Another Sandman (Randy Powell) zaps the guy. But Harrison says hmmm.

We at Hill Electric are proud to have done the job of rewiring the addition to the Kroger building.

As the electrical contractor for this building, our services involved a complete rewiring of the new addition as well as installation of new light fixtures. Take the time to visit the new store and take notice of the attractive new well lit facility Kroger Sav-on has made.

The wiring was a most complex task, and we are proud to have been chosen by Kroger as the ones to handle the job. The new addition will make Kroger's one of the foremost shopping centers in the area.

CONTINUOUS SERVICE TO THE PEOPLE OF FAYETTE COUNTY FOR OVER 30 YEARS!

We extend our CONGRATULATIONS and BEST WISHES to the new KROGER SAV-ON STORE!

Our congratulations to Krogers on the modification and expansion of their building. We at Great Oaks appreciate the confidence placed in us by The Kroger Company. We were pleased to have been selected to make structural modifications although the amount of time for us to complete the job was relatively short.

You are invited to shop the new Kroger Sav-on, and while you're there take the time to notice the transition from the old to the new building. The smooth flow of lines makes this store one of the most attractive in the area. We are proud to have been a part of this project.

Pennington employees donate 80 pints of blood

Local Red Cross receives assist

The Fayette County Chapter of the American Red Cross has met its blood donation quota for the current eight-week period, thanks to employees of the Pennington Bakery in Washington C.H.

A total of 80 pints of blood were donated Wednesday by Pennington Bread employees as part of the annual Founder's Day observance. The employees donated the blood in a special clinic established at the local plant at 1100 Clinton Ave.

The Pennington Bread employees agreed last year to donate blood once a year to the local Red Cross chapter as one of their community activities in honor of the company's founder, the late Morgan B. Pennington.

Ninety persons agreed to donate blood this year in the second annual project, but 10 were rejected for medical reasons.

Seventy-nine pints were received last year in the Pennington blood donation project.

The 80-pint donation pushed the local Red Cross chapter's total to 200 pints this month, 30 pints above the established 170-pint quota for an eight-week period.

The local Red Cross chapter failed to meet its quota at the regular blood-mobile visit last week as only 120 pints were received.

"The Founder's Day committee wishes to thank the employees and friends of Pennington Bread who gave blood and to the many volunteers who gave many hours of their time in preparation for the blood collection," said John Coulter, chairman of the committee. He said several relatives of Pennington employees worked in the canteen and at other vital jobs during the project.

Assisting with the project were Corrinne Sperry and Margaret Johnson of the Fayette County Professional Nurses Association, nurses aides Vivian Underwood and Barbara Foy, Dr. Joseph M. Herbert, Dr. Ralph Gebhart, Dr. Abdul Lorente, Dr. C.H. Hung, Dr. Byers Shaw and Dr. Philip Binzel.

"Without their professional assistance the project would not have been possible," Coulter said.

The following persons contributed blood:

Gilbert E. Yoho, Jim Simpson, Edward Kennedy, Larry D. Edwards, Kenneth Sanderson, Frances Seyfang, Ed Fitch, Debbie Yoho, Larry Cherry, Jim Stelzer, Earl McNutt, Alvin Burr, Charles Morris, Cylinda Herron, James C. Evans, Randy A. Income tax hike eyed at Hillsboro

HILLSBORO, Ohio -- An ordinance placing a proposal for an 0.4 per cent increase in the city income tax on the November general election ballot has been approved by the Hillsboro City Council.

The income tax increase is to benefit the life squad. Without the increase, the city will be forced to curtail employees and service of the emergency squad, city council members said.

NEW GRAIN FACILITIES — Grain drying facilities at the Farm Science Review are new. They feature leg and auger handling systems and six different bins, each with a different drying and stirring mechanism. Advance sale tickets are available at the Fayette County Extension Service Office, 319 S. Fayette St., through Monday.

Conservation of energy theme

Agronomy key at Farm Science Review

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Agronomy's role in the conservation of energy and resources is the theme of Farm Science

Review exhibits prepared by the department of agronomy at Ohio State University and the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development.

Visitors will see how minimum tillage saves energy and soil. Reducing the amount of tillage saves fuel and, at the same time, helps prevent soil erosion and sediment pollution.

Soil testing saves fertilizer and optimizes production, said John Trierweiler, associate professor of agronomy at Ohio State University. The exhibit on this will show how prudent use of fertilizer saves fuel and how to increase the efficiency of fertilizer use.

How to cut back on use of nitrogen fertilizer by growing legumes will be demonstrated. Mechanisms and value of nitrogen fixation by forage legumes and soybeans will be shown.

Forages can be used more as feed for livestock to produce more meat and yet reduce the demand for high energy concentrate rations, the exhibit will show.

Through crop breeding and crop adaptation, new and better varieties are being developed to make more efficient use of solar energy (growing degree days) to produce higher yields of dry matter, protein, carbohydrates, etc.

In addition to these informational exhibits there are many field demonstration plots which show the results of earlier corn planting, various weed control applications in soybeans and corn, plant population tests, application of nitrogen fertilizer, and many others.

TRAFFIC may not be backed up so far at this year's Farm Science Review. A new parking lot and an improved traffic pattern is expected to get cars off the highway and into the grounds more quickly.

Drivers approaching the big farm show in northwestern Franklin County should watch for signs along the road which will suggest alternative routes to save time.

'Bargain prices' offered

Firewood sale set at 8 state forests

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Ohioans with woodburning fireplaces can save money on heating bills again this year by purchasing firewood at bargain prices during the Ohio Department of Natural Resources' (ODNR) "cut-your-own" firewood sales.

"To meet the increasing demand for firewood, we have expanded our firewood sales program this year to include eight state forests, in addition to extending the hours of operation and making timber available on a year-round basis," said Ernest Gebhart, chief of ODNR's division of forestry.

Firewood may be purchased from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday at the following state forests:

—Shawnee State Forest, located west of Portsmouth on Ohio 52; phone (614) 858-4201.

Scioto Trail State Forest, located south of Chillicothe on Ohio 23; phone (614) 663-2523.

Tar Hollow State Forest, located east of Chillicothe near Tucson; phone (614) 887-3879.

—Pike State Forest, located west of Waverly off Ohio 124; phone (614) 493-2441.

Zaleski State Forest, located west of Athens near Zaleski on Ohio 278; phone (614) 596-5781.

Firewood may also be purchased at Blue Rock State Forest located south of Zanesville near Duncan Falls from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Pre-cut firewood is available on a limited basis at Maumee and Hocking state forests for $22 a rick and $66 a cord. Interested buyers should call the state forest office in advance to ensure there is wood available. Maumee State Forest is west of Toledo near Whitehouse; phone (419) 822-3052. Hocking State Forest is south of Lancaster on Ohio 374, phone (614) 385-4402.

Dead, dying and deformed timber is cut and hauled to the location of the sale. Buyers must bring their own chain saw and a sharp axe to cut the timber into firewood lengths.

Signs will be posted to help direct customers to all the sales areas.

Cost of the firewood which must be cut is $5 a rick and $15 a cord with a limit of one cord per customer. A cord measures four feet high, eight feet wide and four feet deep. A rick is about one-third as much wood as a cord. More information concerning the firewood sales and maps of each of the eight state forest locations is available without charge from the Division of Forestry, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus 43224 or phone (614) 466-7842.

Natural gas well found

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — With the state sharing the financial risk, private industry has found a supply of natural gas where previous drilling efforts failed.

Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., said Thursday the Ohio Energy and Resource Development Agency (OERDA) put up one-third of the cost for drilling the well 75 miles southeast of Columbus in Jackson County.

With Nucorp Energy, Inc., of East Liverpool doing the drilling, the well was sunk 4,300 feet in the Beekmantown geological formation under Jackson County.

Open flow readings from the well measure up to two million cubic feet of gas per day, Goodyear said.

Other wells have been drilled in the same formation but "none has been a lasting commercial success," the rubber company reported.

Goodyear already has completed three wells on its own property in Akron that are expected to produce about 50 per cent of the firm's natural gas requirements in Akron. Those wells tap the more commonly productive Clinton formation.

Initial efforts to locate gas in the Rose Run formation beneath Jackson were unsuccessful, Goodyear said.

Successful wells in that formation can be as much as 10 times as productive as Clinton formation wells, Goodyear said, but they also are much deeper and more costly.

That greatly increases the financial risk of drilling.

Beverly Hills benefit draws 7,000 persons

CINCINNATI (AP) — Minnie Butsch clutched a yellow rose while her 70-year-old husband Pius broke into a grin at singer John Davidson's jokes.

For a few moments the remembrance of the loss of a daughter in the Beverly Hills Supper Club fire May 28 was tucked away.

But it wasn't completely forgotten, and was the reason the Butschs and Davidson were here at Riverfront Coliseum Thursday night.

The Butschs and their five grandchildren, ranging in age from three to 18, were among a crowd of 7,000 which turned out for a benefit performance for the 200 children whose parents died in the fire that claimed 164 lives at the Southgate, Ky., nightclub.

"This is a wonderful thing they've done here," Butsch said. "I'm glad someone had the courage to put it on."

Rose Dischar, 38, the Butschs daughter, was a waitress in the club's Cabaret Room.

Her death forced the Butschs to suddenly take on the burden of a second family at a time when they were looking forward to retirement on their northern Kentucky farm.

"It was hard financially for a while," Butsch said. "But it just means I have to get up a little earlier and work a little harder. Everyone's done their part."

Two minor mishaps checked

Two cars collided in a rearend accident on U.S. 22 just east of Clemens Road Thursday morning, Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported.

Sheriff's deputies cited Ivan C. Hyer, 73, of New Holland, after he failed to stop behind another vehicle on U.S. 22 around 10:25 a.m. The other driver, Nellie M. Doyle, 45, of Clarksburg, had slowed to turn left into a private drive, according to the sheriff's department report. Hyer had been traveling behind Mrs. Doyle's car and was reportedly unable to stop when her car slowed down.

Both vehicles sustained moderate damage, but neither driver was injured, the report stated.

A semi-tractor trailer rig was moderately damaged when it jackknifed on the U.S. 35 exit ramp from I-71 Thursday afternoon, according to another sheriff's report.

Aerospace engineer now makes toys

CINCINNATI (AP) — Making toys for a living is far more challenging than developing sophisticated weapons or missiles for the aerospace program, says Charles A. Cummings.

Cummings, 46, an engineer, said he became "fed up" with the politics involved in the aerospace program nine years ago and came home to Cincinnati to make toys.

Aside from building toys for the Kenner Products Co., he has built a big toy for himself that might be a breakthrough in the nation's transportation problems.

"I guess my car is sort of a toy," chuckled Cummings, 46, who, with his retired father, has built a sleek, high performing electric car which can accelerate from 0-35 m.p.h. in 78 seconds.

"More than being a toy, it is a prototype, one of a kind. If I had a lot of money I could do more things," said the co-inventor of the "Baby Alive" doll and a "Play-Doh" pump.

Cummings said Kenner paid him $1 each for the toy patents.

There won't be any patents for the electric car, however. He used standard parts and modified them.

The two-seat sports type car is powered by two General Electric motors. He uses two industrial batteries. The car will "burn rubber" and travel 45 miles at speeds of 45 m.p.h. before needing a recharge. Cummings plans to add a third engine increasing speed to 65 m.p.h. and the range to 65 miles.

Parts include a 1963 Buick steering wheel, a 1966 Volkswagen chassis, 1968 Thunderbird hubcaps and a rejected Bradley GT fiberglass body. All the parts were machined and modified. It cost him about $3,500 and 500 hours of work.

Cummings said he was interested in electric cars and drove several.

"They performed badly. They feel like you are driving a toy. If you drive my car it feels like driving a real car," Cummings said.

"The only thing bad about my car is the weight problem. I wanted the integrity of a solid car. I wanted to go the conventional way."

Cummings, who holds engineering degrees from Franklin University and the University of Cincinnati, did research for Rockwell International in Columbus, Ohio, on reconnaissance during the Vietnam war. The military needed equipment to see through the dense foliage.

After that, he went into missiles but "it was boring, too much repetition. I saw the handwriting on the wall. The technical end of research was getting too political. I got disgusted. So when I heard a toy company was interested in me, I took it."

Two inmates jog away from prison

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Two prison inmates on an outside work detail escaped by shodding their prison garb for jogging shorts and literally running away, authorities said.

The two joggers, however, were recaptured when the mother of one of the inmates told police where they were hiding, officials said.

Robert Lopez, 19, and Samuel Hampton, 21, were part of a five-man convict work detail which was moving shelving from the old Capitol to the new 22-story structure.

Authorities said they had worn jogging shorts under their prison uniforms and soon they fled down an alley, throwing the prison uniforms into a trash can.

Lopez was convicted of robbery in Broward County and Hampton was convicted of burglary and grand larceny in Tallahassee.

Patterns cut to fit Miami Trace

Panthers seen as only SCOL winner

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Editor

With only one week gone in the South Central Ohio League, we have already established a few patterns. First, Miami Trace's offense looks like it is capable of scoring in triple figures. Second, Greenfield McClain has the makings of a team that could record six, maybe seven shutouts this season.

In the primary week of football, the Panthers saw fit to step around, over and mostly through Delaware Hayes to win by 70 points at 84-14. Both the point spread and total are new school records. Watching Trace in action makes you think that won't be the only records they break this season.

The Tigers in Highland County have a tremendous win-shutout ratio, 15 of their last 18 wins being whitewashes. McClain coach Fred Brisker calls it "business as usual" but that's 83 percent of their wins by shutout and there's nothing usual about that. It should be quite a game come Nov. 4 when the Panthers and Tigers get together.

But, there are seven games this week to worry about first. Washington C.H. hosts Chillicothe, Miami Trace visits Teays Valley, Hamilton Township invades Circleville, McClain heads for Springfield Shawnee, Wilmington is at Grove City, Madison Plains plays at West Jefferson and Hillsboro plays at Zanesville Rosecrans on Saturday.

The predictions were a mediocre 4 for 7 last week, a 57 percent average.

CHILICOTHE AT WASHINGTON C.H.

The Blue Lions lost a game last week that they should have won and deserved to win. But, a 50-yard fumble return and two-point conversion count as one in the loss column.

Last week, Court House didn't face much of a defense in Wellston, scoring the first two times they had the ball. Chillicothe, with a 9-0 beating of Circleville under their belts, have a much better and quicker offense than the Lions saw one week ago.

Terry Wilson will be back in the lineup and Larry Bricksles will be carrying the ball like last week, but when it's all said and done, it's 0-2 for the men in blue. . . Chillicothe 20, Washington C.H. 12.

MIAMI TRACE AT TEAYS VALLEY

The Vikings got a small taste of SCOL action last week, losing to Greenfield, 7-0. The Panthers will more than likely to rip out their taste buds.

The Panthers rolled up 510 yards offense last week. Teays Valley managed 50 against Greenfield. The margin will be about the same this week.

Art Schlichter got to show the people how he could run last week. This week, odds are his arm will do the talking. . . Miami Trace 50, Teays Valley 6.

HAMILTON TOWNSHIP AT CIRCLEVILLE

The Tigers, used to a rumbling offense these past few years have fallen on extremely hard times. They managed just 42 total yards against Chillicothe last week and that was all recorded on the ground.

Circleville quarterback Jon Bakalas was only called upon four times to put the ball in the air, but it fell to the ground each time last week.

Hamilton Township has a big play offense with quick backs and a big defense. Those two factors spell bad things for the Tigers. . . Hamilton Township 21, Circleville 7.

MCCLAIN AT SPRINGFIELD SHAWNEE

Of several Springfield teams, Shawnee is generally ranked among the best. Last year the Braves almost beat Greenfield at home. Only John Dettwiller's extra point kick in the fourth quarter gave the Tigers a 13-12 win.

Greenfield had extreme trouble moving the ball last week and quarterback Steve Wood suffered a horrendous game of going 0-for-10. Their offense is still very suspect, even though Randy Seldon ran for 142 yards last Friday.

But, where their offense falls, their defense rises. Anchored by Brett Robinson and John Cannon, the Tigers have as good a defense as you'll find. But, they can't put very many points on the board. . . Springfield 14, McClain 7.

WILMINGTON AT GROVE CITY

The Hurricane didn't have it too easy last week against the Buccaneers from Xenia. They blanketed the Wilmington offense, holding tailback Gary Williams to just 20 yards on 11 carries and five points, all on kicks.

Grove City is another big, bruising Class AAA team that the Hurricane will have to contend with. Victories don't come easy versus Grove City, especially in their own home town.

Wilmington doesn't get much of a breather this week. And Williams will do better than last week, but not good enough. . . Grove City 24, Wilmington 13.

MADISON PLAINS AT WEST JEFFERSON

This game is practically over before it begins. West Jeff is the defending Class A state champions and Madison Plains is working on a two-year, 10-game losing streak.

One bright spot in the Eagles' loss to Westfall last week was quarterback Chris Emrich's 118 yards passing that ranks him first in the SCOL. But, Emrich will not have very much time to throw this time around.

West Jeff will keep cruising toward another shot at the title and that means 11 in a row for Plains. . . West Jefferson 41, Madison Plains 6.

HILLSBORO AT ZANESVILLE ROSECRANS

The Indians play the first of two successive Saturday night games in hopes of maybe changing their luck. Friday's have not been too productive for Hillsboro in the past.

Last Friday, the Indians fell flat against a team they normally beat, New Richmond. They managed to gain 215 yards and score 10 points, but they gave up 20 points and 204 yards on defense.

Zanesville beat the Indians last year in Highland County and they should do likewise in their own territory. . . Zanesville Rosecrans 22, Hillsboro 12.

Red Sox knock off New York

Baltimore protests, leaves, forfeits

The Baltimore Orioles took a walk and ended up in a tie with the Boston Red Sox for second place in the American East.

"I couldn't afford to leave my players out there," Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said after the Orioles walked off the field and forfeited their game to the Toronto Blue Jays Thursday night. "It might have saved someone's career."

Weaver refused to let his team take the field in the bottom of the fifth inning when umpire Marty Springstead refused to grant Weaver's request to remove a tarpaulin, anchored by bricks, covering the mound in the Toronto bullpen down the left-field line.

The game had been played in a steady drizzle and Toronto led, 4-0.

"There's only four feet of space between the foul line and the mound," Weaver said. "I had a guy (left fielder Andres Mora) slip out there last night and wasn't about to let it happen again. If you can't go four feet and catch a ball, there's something wrong."

While Baltimore took a 9-0 loss by sitting in the dressing room, the Red Sox walloped the AL East-leading New York Yankees, 7-3. The Boston victory pulled the Red Sox into a tie for second with Baltimore, 2½ games behind the Yankees.

Boston's Denny Doyle cracked a bases-loaded triple to key a six-run Boston explosion and bury the Yankees.

The victory salvaged the final game of the three-game series with New York.

In other AL games Thursday, Kansas City swept a doubleheader from Oakland, 7-6 in 11 innings; Minnesota crushed Chicago 7-2 and Texas defeated California 6-4.

Luis Tiant, 11-8, earned the Boston victory with late-inning relief help from Bill Campbell. Yankee reliever Sparky Lyle, 12-5 took the loss.

Royals 7-5, A's 6-4

Kansas City swept a doubleheader from Oakland, needing extra innings in both games. Al Cowens led off the 10th inning of the nightcap with a home run into the left-field bleachers to lift the Royals to victory after Pete LaCock's single scored Willie Wilson with the winning tally in the 11th inning of the opener.

The double victory stretched Kansas City's winning streak to 16 games, the longest in the major leagues since the New York Yankees won 18 straight in 1953. The Royals also reduced to seven their "magic number" for clinching the American League West. Any number of Kansas City victories or Chicago losses totaling seven will give the Royals the title.

Cowens' homer off loser Doug Bair, 3-4, was his 23rd of the season. Bair also was the losing pitcher in the first game.

Twins 7, White Sox 2

Butch Wynegar drove in two runs with a pair of singles and Rod Carew drove in one run and scored two to back Geoff Zahn's six-hit pitching as Minnesota downed Chicago.

Rangers 6, Angels 4

Mike Hargrove's 16th home run of the season and Willie Horton's two-run single sparked Texas over California. Rangers starter Nelson Briles, 6-4, who needed help from reliever Andrian Devine, gave up six hits in six innings, including Don Baylor's 22nd homer.

John Caneira, 1-1, took the loss.

Golf news

The team of Dr. Charles Griffith, Mrs. Paul Metzger, Ralph Hyer and Mrs. Richard Barger was victorious last night in the team mixed scramble event held at WCC.

Next in line was the team of Gene Heath, Ray French, Mrs. Loren Noble and Mrs. Jim Morrison followed by the team of Paul Metzger, Mrs. Allen Willoughby, Loren Noble and Mrs. Ed Vollette and the team of Allen Willoughby, Richard Barger, Mrs. Ray French and Mrs. Ralph Hyer.

The winning team shot a 33 while the second team had a 35 and the two third-place teams shot 36.

The next event at WCC will be the men's scramble event this Sunday.

Reds beat LA, 3-2

Seaver wins 200th; looks for 300th

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tom Seaver had just won his 200th major league victory and he immediately began talking about 300.

"If I stay healthy five more years I should win 300 with this club," said the Cincinnati right-hander after hurling the Reds to a 3-2 victory over Los Angeles Thursday night.

Seaver joins four others among active pitchers who have won 200 or more games — Ferguson Jenkins, Gaylord Perry, Jim Kaat and Jim (Catfish) Hunter.

"It wasn't easy," said Seaver, who retired the Dodgers in order only twice although giving up just six hits. "I made it tough on myself. I was wild and I was high most of the night."

"I didn't really think about 200 until the ninth inning, after I got past Rick Monday, and then it dawned on me."

The victory was the 18th in 24 decisions for Seaver and his 11th since coming to the Reds June 15 in a controversial trade with the New York Mets.

The Reds also prevented Los Angeles from reducing its magic number for clinching the National League West championship. It remains at four as the Reds go to San Francisco tonight while the Dodgers start a three-game series with Atlanta. Los Angeles leads by 1½ games.

The Dodgers have 15 games remaining, the Reds have 14.

Cincinnati also won the final four games from Los Angeles as well as the season series, 10 games to eight.

"At least we did that," said George Foster, who scored the winning run in the seventh inning. "We just hope it continues into next year."

Monday staked Los Angeles to a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning with a two out, two-run homer.

The lead lasted only until the top of the fifth. The Reds were held hitless for four innings by Doug Rau. After Johnny Bench walked to lead off the fifth, Dave Concepcion lined a double to center. Bench came home when Bob Bailey grounded out and then Dan Driessen singled home Concepcion to tie the game.

The Reds broke the tie in the seventh when Foster and Bench opened the inning with singles. Mike Garman replaced Rau, but gave up a run-scoring single to Concepcion.

Manager Tom Lasorda, who was criticized for leaving Tommy John in Wednesday night's game too long, immediately went to the bullpen again, bringing in Lance Rautzhan, who retired pinch-hitter Ray Knight and then walked Driessen intentionally to load the bases.

Elias Sosa then took over and not only snuffed a squeeze bunt try by Seaver, but turned it into an inning-ending double-play.

The Dodgers failed to respond, however, as Seaver did not allow a hit the final four innings.

"I haven't been getting strikeouts like I used to," said Seaver, who fanned six Dodgers. "I just haven't been popping the ball."

Speaking of popping the ball, that's what left-fielder Bailey did with Monday's fourth inning homer. It appeared Bailey had a play on the ball, but, as he said, "the ball popped out of my glove and over the wall."

In other National League games, the Philadelphia Phillies beat the New York Mets 8-2; the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 in the opener of a doubleheader before losing the second game, 10-7; the Montreal Expos nipped the Chicago Cubs 5-4; the Houston Astros turned back the San Francisco Giants 6-3 and the Atlanta Braves edged the San Diego Padres 8-7 in 10 innings.

Phillies 8, Mets 2

Mike Schmidt slammed his 35th home run of the season with two men on in the fourth inning, carrying Philadelphia over New York. Schmidt's homer, his first at home since July 31, made a winner of rookie Randy Lerch, 9-5. Craig Swan fell to 8-9.

Pirates 4-7, Cardinals 3-10

John Candelaria and Rich Gossage combined on a seven-hitter and Candelaria contributed a two-run double to a three-run rally in the seventh inning, leading Pittsburgh over St. Louis in the first game of their doubleheader.

Hector Cruz slammed a three-run homer and Roger Freed added a two-run triple in a seven-run sixth inning that carried St. Louis over Pittsburgh in the second game.

Expos 5, Cubs 4

Rookie Stan Papi's run-scoring single with two out in the ninth boosted Montreal over Chicago. Jerry White led off the Montreal ninth with an infield single and remained at first as Will McEnaney and Dave Cash struck out.

But White then stole second and scored easily on Papi's game-winning hit off loser Bruce Sutter, 7-3.

Astros 6, Giants 3

Bob Watson's two-run homer in the seventh snapped a 3-3 tie and led Houston over San Francisco. Watson's 18th homer of the season came off Giants starter Ed Halicki, 14-11, who also surrendered a two-run blast to reserve catcher Ed Herrmann in the sixth inning.

Braves 8, Padres 7

Rookie catcher Dale Murphy hit his second home run of the game and his major league career in the top of the 10th inning to give Atlanta its victory over San Diego.

Murphy, who had homered in the seventh, drilled his second homer off Rollie Fingers, 8-7, after the Braves had rallied to wipe out a 7-1 deficit with five runs in the eighth and a run in the ninth on Willie Montanez' two-out, run-scoring single.

Yaz rolls with the punches, Reggie swims against the flow

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

To some professional athletes, playing the game is fun. To others, it can be drudgery. The attitude probably determines the length of the athlete's career.

That's what Reggie Jackson, the $2.9 million outfielder of the New York Yankees, says. Carl Yastrzemski, the astounding 38-year-old reliable of the Boston Red Sox, agrees.

These two men, involved with their teams in a fierce struggle for the American League pennant, presented a contrast that accented this piece of wisdom during the important series just concluded at Yankee Stadium.

Over in the Red Sox locker room, there was ol' Yaz, putting the finishing touches on his 17th major league season, eager as a schoolboy to rush out on the field.

"I like to play baseball," he said. "It's still a thrill for me every game. It's my enthusiasm that keeps me going."

Fifty yards down the winding catcombs of the Stadium, Jackson sat on a small stool and pulled on two pairs of high socks reluctantly.

"Know where I would like to be?" he said to the small cordon of newsmen surrounding his locker. "I'd like to be on a nice beach or some secluded spot somewhere, taking it easy. I wish we were 11 games ahead and this game didn't mean anything."

"For me, this is work. Just to play the game to be playing means nothing to me. But if there's a man on base and I come to bat needing a hit to win the game, then I get excited about it. I have 91 runs batted in. I couldn't care less about getting No. 92; not unless it has a bearing on the game."

"The nitty gritty stuff I like. I like to grub. I like to fight. I like to win. But play just to be playing? Forget it."

Jackson is only 31 years old, one of the game's superstars, yet he already, by his own admission, is looking ahead to his retirement, although his Yankee contract has four more years to go.

"I've got a sore knee," he said. "Maybe this is my last year in baseball." Jackson is glib and often he talks for effect rather than substance. But it is well known that his young life with the Yankees hasn't been altogether happy and he has a lucrative job in industry awaiting him when he decides to call it quits.

Yastrzemski, on the other hand, is talking about playing until he is 40. Trim and tough, a stickler for physical conditioning and a model of dedication, he refuses to be consigned to the dump heap.

He has missed fewer than 10 games all year, hitting around .300, hammering more than 20 home runs and often producing the key hit.

In other words, you might put athletes into categories: lovers and fighters. Reggie considers himself a fighter. He plays in pain.

Jackson drew a couple of parallels: Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier in boxing, Jackie Robinson and Hank Aaron in baseball.

"It was Frazier who liked to get down to the grime and dirt and claw it out," he said. "Ali floats and dances his way through life, always remaining aloof from the gritty stuff. So Joe retires and Ali carries on."

"Jackie Robinson was the gut-fighter of the baseball field. Hank Aaron the smooth, unruffled guy. So Aaron goes 22 years in the majors and hits 755 home runs. Jackie's life was tragically short."

"I can understand Yaz's longevity. He rides with the punch. Me? I'm more like Robinson."

Bacon leader of new 'Sack Pack'

CINCINNATI (AP) — A year ago, veteran Coy Bacon established himself as the ace of the Cincinnati Bengals high-flying defense, producing 26 quarterback sacks to lead the National Football League.

Now that he has reinforcements, Bacon insists the Bengals' little known four is on the verge of taking the NFL by storm.

"I've got a lot more help now. Let me tell you, it's going to be a footrace who gets there first. The quarterback has nowhere to go," said the 34-year-old defensive end who was once a vital cog in the Los Angeles Rams' famed "Fearsome Foursome." He had 20 sacks with the Rams in 1970 and 21 in 1971.

He cites two reasons for his unbridled enthusiasm: rookies Eddie Edwards and Wilson Whitley, two highly-skilled first round draft picks.

They join Bacon in the starting lineup Sunday against the Cleveland Browns, along with leftside defensive end Gary Burley, who is rated among the quickest down linemen in the NFL. Burley, in his first year as a starter, had 11 sacks last season.

"We're faster than the original 'Fearsome Foursome' at reacting to the ball," said Bacon, a 270-pounder acquired last year from the San Diego Chargers for wide receiver Charlie Joiner.

He feels the addition of Edwards and Whitley bridged the talent gap between the Bengals and the Pittsburgh Steelers, their chief divisional rival.

"Edwards and Whitley are quicker than 'Mean' Joe Greene will ever be. That's why it is going to be different with Pittsburgh this year."

Oakland, Vikes pick up from January

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

It will be no surprise to anybody to find that the Oakland Raiders and Minnesota Vikings will be picking up right where they left off last January. The Raiders will win with ease. The Vikings won't.

The San Diego Chargers, chock full of hope, will be shot full of holes by the Oakland juggernaut. The Vikings, the last team to feel the Raiders' swords, will get cut to the quick again, this time in a mild upset by the Dallas Cowboys.

That upset is nothing, however, when compared to what's going to happen in Philadelphia. That's right! Tampa Bay, your friendly neighborhood doormat of a year ago, is going to beat the Eagles.

There's your Upset Special of the Week in this opening round of National Football League action. Now the details:

Raiders 34, Chargers 16

San Diego's got a few good horses with newcomers James Harris at quarterback, Bob Klein at tight end, Johnny Rodgers at wide receiver and more. The defense, though, is still suspect.

Oakland's the same old gang on both sides of the line but what a gang. Ken Stabler will chew up San Diego's secondary and the 3-4 defense will hit the Chargers with the old 1-2.

Cowboys 24, Vikings 20

Minnesota's got a habit of blowing the big ones, namely four Super Bowls. This one may not be as big but it's still a pretty good indication of just how the greying Vikes will do this year. We think they'll do only so-so.

Buccaneers 21, Eagles 17
Call it intuition. Call it lunacy. The feeling is that Tampa Bay, charged up over its victory against Baltimore a week ago, will sustain the mood. And with a pair of running backs like Ricky Bell and Anthony Davis, the Bucs have the right to some exultation.

Steelers 28, 49ers 10
Pittsburgh is hurting. But not so much that it can't stifle San Francisco on Monday night. The defense is almost as good as last year, which is to say close to sensational.

Colts 31, Seahawks 23
Seattle's got the offense to scare a lot of teams and a defense that terrifies the Seahawks' fans. Put Bert Jones, Lydell Mitchell & Co. in front of that defense and watch the points pile up.

Cardinals 31, Broncos 28
Technically, this is an upset pick since the odds-makers like Denver by a point or two. But we don't see it that way. Until the Broncos show they've got a quarterback and that they can stop one like St. Louis' Jim Hart, we'll stick with the Cardiac Cards.

Bengals 38, Browns 10
Cleveland collapsed on the final weekend of 1976, after its chances of sneaking to a division title went out the window. In 1977 the collapse comes 13 weeks earlier.

Bears 24, Lions 13
The team most likely to beat Minnesota to a division title is Chicago, full of promise and questions. Detroit just seems to go along reaching mediocrity each season. This one's no different.

Rams 24, Falcons 7
Having Joe Namath's signals called from the bench is like putting a Picasso in a parking lot. Nevertheless, Freeway Joe will overcome the handicap.

Patriots 28, Chiefs 14
Will Steve Grogan be the sensation he was in 1976? Yes, if he can avoid getting hurt. Kansas City may not lay a hand on him all day.

Dolphins 24, Bills 14
Once again it's O.J. Simpson against the world. Miami is a shot-full-of-holes team, but at least it's a team, not a one-man show.

Saints 21, Packers 16
Hank Stram thinks a good preseason record can lead to a good regular-season record. For one game, it can.

Redskins 27, Giants 10
Washington's the Over-The-Hill Gang. Call the Giants the hill.

Oilers 20, Jets 14
With Joe Namath or without him, the Jets are grounded.

Highlights of Ohio prep football

WHEELING, W.Va. (AP) — Massillon prides itself as "the best known name in scholastic football" but there's much more to the Ohio sport's lore than the well-publicized Tigers.

Some of the Ohio schoolboy teams and individual performances have bordered on the unbelievable. This effort, an offspring of a compilation of U.S. prep standards for the National Federation of High School Associations, isn't offered as a complete, definite essay of Ohio prep football, only as a "scratching the surface" indicator of the more remarkable efforts in the state.

For starters, here are some team efforts in the scoring and streak categories:

TEAM SCORING
Fostoria scored 596 points in eight games in 1912, a 74.5 per game average.

second nationally to 75.1 by Jersey Shore, Pa., in 1922.

Dayton Steele scored 600 points in nine games in 1920, a 66.7 average. Steele handed Massillon a 68-0 thrashing that season.

Toledo Waite scored a high of 666 points for 11 games in 1921. A more modern comparison was 637 by Newark Catholic in 10 games in 1971.

For a recent single game effort, how about the 89-0 blanking Columbus Walnut Ridge gave Columbus Central in 1975?

DEFENSE

Stow Walsh Jesuit blanked its first nine opponents last season before yielding a fourth quarter field goal in the final game against Stow.

Elida in Allen County stopped after nine victories in 1945 with all shutouts. Individually, Ken Bronz of Columbia deserves recognition. He intercepted 17 passes in 1975.

INDIVIDUAL SCORING

The top two season scorers battled it out in 1952, Hubert Bobo of Chauncey-Dover piling up 323 points, sixth on the national all-time list, and Carl Smith of Washington Court House posting 294.

For modern career scoring, Paul Jordan of Cincinnati Sycamore scored 522 points from 1970 through 1972. In individual games, eight touchdowns have been scored more than once.

RUSHING YARDS

For modern players, Fred Jacobs of Cincinnati Wyoming had 2,214 yards in 1975. In the old era, Steubenville's George "Puck" Burgwin accounted for 2,126 yards.

Among the workhorses, Roger Davidson of Kent State carried 325 yards in 10 games and had 1,864 yards and 23 touchdowns in 1967.

Team-wise, Steubenville rolled up 734 yards against Massillon in 1931.

COACHING RECORDS

Bron Bacevich, who retired in 1974 from Cincinnati Bacon, had a 43-year record of 315 victories, 97 losses and 17 ties. Bacevich posted 11 unbeaten seasons in Ohio and Illinois.

Among the contemporaries, before this season Gerry Faust of Cincinnati Moeller had a record of 128-16-2. Bob Lewis of Cincinnati Wyoming was 178-19-7 since 1956 and 201-31-8 in his career.

TEAM STREAKS

Bethel lost 23 straight games in 1973-76, being outscored 0-723 over one 14-game stretch.

Sullivan Black River dropped 53 consecutive decisions in 1961-67.

The consecutive victory streak is 49 by Dayton Jefferson (1970-74), followed by Marion Pleasant's 43 in 1969-73 and Upper Arlington's 42 in 1967-71. Cincinnati Moeller currently has a 42-game regular season winning streak.

Massillon has the unbeaten record of 52 games in 1937-42, including 38 straight victories, 33 of them under Paul Brown in 1937-40.

Overall, Massillon had played 699 games and won 527 of them, plus 33 ties, for a 79 winning percentage going into 1977. The Tigers had claimed 22 Ohio titles, including seven straight Associated Press championships from 1948 through 1954.

New Japanese Camera on American scene. The 35mm Fujica AZ-1 with a compact 43-to-75mm zoom lens makes its debut in the United Nations Plaza, the first to offer a zoom lens as a standard optic.

company in the American market.

Fuji, first to bring to us high-speed ASA 400 color print film in 35mm size, now brings it to us in 110 size, along with a new pocket camera with built-in electronic flash designed for high-speed film use. It also unveils a new 35mm SLR camera with compact zoom lens as standard optic and with automatic motor winder and flash unit extras, the latest in electronic wizardry.

From its small office, Fuji expanded to almost an entire floor in the Empire State Building and now has major distribution centers in Los Angeles, Chicago, Dallas and New Jersey. Besides still and movie cameras, their products include motion picture film, X-ray, graphic arts and microfilm material, amateur color films and both audio and video magnetic tape products.

Nakamura listed three reasons for Fuji's growth in the American market.

"First, we're an innovative company," he said, "offering products either because they were superior in quality or because they offered better value."

"Second, we have an outstanding position in technical development. We were the first to offer a camera with light emitting diodes (LEDs) instead of a matched needle system to indicate exposure. And the first with a digital readout system in a camera. And first to offer 200 ASA single-8 film for home movies and 400 ASA speed 16mm color film for news work. And first with 400-speed color print film."

"Third, we are basically devoted to photography and its growth as an industry," he emphasized. "We are active in such joint industry projects as pollution abatement, the Photographic Industry Education Advisory Council, and membership in professional groups. We also have a Fuji scholarship program with financial aid to students in American photographic schools studying art, science and photojournalism."

Nakamura talked of instant photography and its importance as a picture-taking medium. It can be reported that Fuji is working on instant film technology, and hopes to enter that market in the not-too distant future.

"However, we're concentrating our concern, presently, on maintaining the healthy growth of conventional photography," he added. "Toward that end, we're trying to provide more picture-taking opportunities with maximum convenience, efficiency and economy. In addition, we try to offer better picture quality."

He pointed out that the new 400-speed color film gave users more picture taking opportunities in the shade and indoors. It also improved picture quality because it permitted shooting at faster shutter speeds, giving sharper pictures.
